"Solly takes the Opus Palladianum technique (irregularly shaped tesserae resulting in "crazy" paving) to a whole new level of crazy."

Solly comes to the Netherlands for an exclusive 3-day workshop

Brookside

Join Solly in a 3-day workshop, exploring the use of Opus palladianum (no apparent pattern) and his signature techniques to create realism in an interior wall hanging (to be framed and grouted, if desired, on your own at home).

Students will work at their own pace and some may wish or need to finish at home, depending on many factors, including speed at which a student makes decisions and lays tesserae, tesserae size, and size of the image. If mosaics have been adhered, then students may choose to layer glass for highlights, outlines, details, changes to problem areas, texture and virtual depth.

There will be 3 images from which students may choose to mosaic. Using this image students will learn to "paint" mosaics with chaotic andamento and Solly's signature fluid double reverse method, setting stained glass pieces onto a temporary substrate without adhesive and then flipping and adhering the mosaic onto its permanent substrate.

Stained glass, adhesive and substrate will be provided.

Materials that students must bring:

1. 2-wheeled glass-cutters
2. optional: running glass pliers and glass end pliers
3. safety glasses
4. tweezers, and
5. packing materials (to bring your work home intact)
